Amelia Starts Late Today On World Flight

Takeoff For Honolulu "About 5 O'Clock," She Reports

OAKLAND (AP)—Amelia Earhart Putnam announced today that "rain or shine" she definitely would take off late today on her flight around the world.

Her takeoff for Honolulu, the first leg of her proposed 27,000 mile flight, has been delayed since Sunday because of adverse weather conditions between here and the Hawaiian Islands 2,400 miles away.

No weather obstructions were in her path to Honolulu today and local weather conditions were perfect for the flight.

"I will take off sometime between four and five o'clock—probably nearer five than four," Miss Earhart said.

"If it rains, I will use the shorter, MacAdam runway. Otherwise I will use the airport's regular dirt runway, which is considerably longer and will give me more room to lift the ship with its heavy load of gasoline," she said.

Miss Barnhouse Gives Report Tuesday At Travel Section

Miss Mabel Jean Barnhouse was the speaker for the regular meeting of the Travel Section of the Shakespeare Club, held Tuesday at the clubhouse, and gave a very interesting and instructive talk on the Panama Canal Zone, based upon her residence there for some years.

She described the Canal and the Canal Zone from the time the French government first began its Canal project until the present day.

Interest centered in her description of the government-owned park, built as a natural sanctuary and refuge for animals, birds and native flowers.

Many pictures of the Panama natives were shown, as well as pictures of government buildings in various cities. (Continued on page 3)

Pair Held In Tehama Death

Corning Car Salesman Found With Skull Punctured

RED BLUFF (AP)—Circumstances attending the death of 53-year-old Eldridge S. Bright, Corning automobile salesman, grew more puzzling today as authorities resumed their investigation of the case which led to arrest of a man hunted by Wichita, Kansas police since 1934 as a murder suspect.

Arrested by coincidence with the "mystery woman" police were seeking as the key figure in their investigation of Bright's death, Fred Wakeman, 35, denied in the county jail here that he knew anything of the Kansas slaying.

The young, auburn-haired woman, gave her name as Helen Wakeman, inadvertently led police to the man she said was her husband and both were arrested near Chico late yesterday.

The investigation began when a rancher found Bright's body sprawled beside his automobile at the site of an abandoned oil well, five miles from Corning. An inch-long gash at the base of Bright's skull indicated he had been murdered. Although a medical report submitted to Sheriff John N. Froome by Dr. Arthur H. Meuser held Bright died of a heart attack, the sheriff said he was "not at all satisfied" with the report and would press the inquiry.

AUDIENCE HUNTS SLAYER IN NEW EMPIRE FEATURE

The easiest method of directing a motion picture is to see it, mentally, beforehand.

This is the "visualizing" method which George Seitz, noted for many recent hits, including "Society Doctor," the picture in which Robert Taylor was discovered, works out his directorial problems.

Seitz directed "Under Cover of Night," a detective story based on an entirely new formula, and in which Edmund Lowe, creates a new detective character for the screen, by this method. The new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, being shown Wednesday at the Empire Theater, had many problems which he believes could have been solved no other way.

"In the first place, we had to abandon all older forms of staging a detective story," says Seitz. "The story does not follow the old surprise formula in which the solution comes suddenly and the detective explains how he reached it. Instead, the audience itself turns detective, and follows each clue with the detective on the screen. The spectators are 'in the know' and are themselves placed in the position of seekers of the criminal."

Mrs. Sally Steneberg returned Tuesday evening from a short visit to San Rafael and San Francisco.

HUNCH CORRECT

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Arthur Goad, 34, always thought he would die if he worked on an oil derrick. He stuck to his roustabout job on the ground and let the other oil field workers take the better paying rig jobs. But jobs were so scarce this week he had to work as a baler. He was 75 feet up the derrick when a plank fell and killed him.

Garden Trails To Be Feature For Institute

Emphasis Given This Year To Products Of California

On the afternoons of April 7, 8 and 9, Jane Barton will conduct the Homecraft Institute at the Shakespeare Clubhouse, covering the important phases of every department of household economics.

The Institute which will be absolutely free, is a splendid opportunity for California homemakers to confer with one of the west's leading home economists and for them to enjoy a program of informative and constructive information free of fuss and frills and specially prepared to meet the problems and needs of the small city and rural housewife. This year's Institute features dozens of special California items—a California party with recipes for hilarity—flower arrangements for California homes—how to get husbands to eat salads—how to take best advantage of California foods in the simple and economical preparation of a meal—in short, California homemaking suggestions of all sorts.

And Jane Barton actually does all these things before your eyes. Not only does she discuss your problems but she shows you how to solve them by a practical demonstration.

Jane Barton's conferences are tremendously popular because everything which she presents from the platform has been fully tested and tried in her own home, and has passed successfully. (Continued on page 3)

Grand Jury's Report Stirs S. F. Officials

City Is Riddled With Graft, Pay-Offs, Claimed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Angry shouts of "lies," and indignant threats to "see my lawyer about this," reverberated today as a stormy aftermath to a report made by Edwin N. Atherton into alleged corruption and graft in the San Francisco police department.

The grand jury filed the report with Presiding Judge George Steiger, which automatically made the document public and free from libel actions. City officials and the district attorney's office authorized the investigation.

The report, compiled after secret investigation over a period of months, made specific charges concerning persons high in public or private life.

It painted a picture of a San Francisco, riddled with graft, protection, police payoffs and underworld iniquity which brought recollections of the roaring, lawless days of the Barbary Coast.

Those mentioned in the report were charged with sins of omission or commission ranging from merely impeding an investigation into conditions, to ruling as vice-lord of San Francisco and dictating the policies of the police department.

The report speaks for itself and it doesn't lie," Atherton replied. "Not one word of it accuses anyone unjustly and not one word will be changed."

Atherton formerly was a special agent with the Bureau of Investigation, U. S. Department of Justice.

The Lid's Off

Meeting The Challenge

Placerville's business houses are meeting the challenge of modern competition with resultant advantage to themselves, their patrons and the entire community.

We do not know whether it has been apparent to you, but we have noticed for several weeks past an apparent readjustment in business circles intended better to serve the needs of the local trade.

It is difficult to point specific instances, and that probably is not necessary, but one instance in which the fact is most readily apparent is found at the Empire Theater.

It may be that we are just beginning to notice things. Perhaps this has been going on for months or even years. But we have noticed in recent weeks that the Empire Theater has presented several pictures to its patrons which were shown subsequently as first-run features in Sacramento theaters.

Placerville business houses are meeting the challenge. Stores have new offerings in merchandis earlier and their displays are more varied.

Even your daily newspaper, in the event you hadn't noticed, is striving just a little harder to serve you.

Placerville business houses, we feel very definitely, are meeting the challenge of modern business with modern methods and practices and modern service.

In all fairness, then, your home merchant deserves the opportunity to serve you first.

JAPAN MAY AID FISHERMEN IN NORTH PACIFIC

TOKYO (UP)—Tatsuji Hara, director of the Fisheries Bureau of the Ministry of Agriculture, told questioners in the Japanese diet the government intends to encourage Japanese salmon fishermen in the "public waters" off Alaska, it was revealed today.

Hara told members of the Lower House of Japan's Parliament, Japanese fishermen would be encouraged to fish off Alaska "in view of the promising nature of the fishing lots," a Domei (government) news agency translation of the Lower House's minutes revealed.

However, the government will investigate thoroughly before deciding on "concrete measures" regulating Japanese fishermen in Alaskan waters, Domei quoted Hara as saying.

Alaskan fishermen have protested to President Roosevelt, asking that steps be taken to bar Japanese fishermen from operating outside the three-mile limit off the Alaskan coast. They claim the salmon are spawned and cultured at great cost on United States territory, and that the Japanese catch the fish after they leave the spawning grounds and return to the sea.

Sit-Down Strikers Defy Court Order

DETROIT (UP)—Sit-down strikers, unimpressed by the fact they were inviting a $10,000,000 fine, defied a circuit court injunction today and held nine Chrysler Corporation plants past the 9 a. m. deadline set by Judge Allen Campbell for their evacuation.

No immediate move was made to oust the 8,000 strikers who have paralyzed production in Chrysler's big Detroit plants.

PARADE OF SPORTS

By HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Writer)

NEW YORK (UP)—Lovers of burlesque and the Brooklyn Dodgers were gratified to learn by dispatches from Clearwater, Florida today that Manager Burleigh Grimes has engaged Percy Beard, former world's hurdling champion, to instruct the Dodgers in base running.

This was good news because it dispelled, once and for all, that Grimes meant it when, on taking charge of said that he would leave Whimsy to Milne, comedy to Cantor, the Werd to Rohmer, and operate the team with the strict efficiency of a lorgnette factory. The fact that he has engaged a hurdling coach to teach base running is proof positive that Burleigh was only talking through his whiskers, and that the Dodgers will come forth to meet the enemy next month as daffy as ever.

At the same time, one is forced to admit that a few sound lessons in hurdling is likely to improve the Dodgers skill in running the bases. Hurdlers, as you know, must learn to leap obstacles when on the base paths. Their obstacles usually take the form of other Brooklyn players who, not accustomed to being on base, lose their heads.

The Dodgers could have used a little hurdling on that memorable afternoon in 1926 when, with the bases loaded and but one out, Babe Herman DOUBLED into a double play. Herman ran right on by Chick Fewster, who was on first, and slid into third just as Dazzy Vance, who had been on second, also slid into it. Had he known hurdling, Herman could have neatly "scissored" over the dazzer and headed for home.

Beard, the training camp dispatch said, also would instruct the outfielders how to hurdle after flyballs. The dispatch didn't say just how much he would teach them, so I suppose it's safe to assume that he will instruct them in the art from beginning to end. The first thing, of course, will be a course in how to come out of the starting pits. This conjures up the charming picture of the Brooklyn outfielders crouched in their starting holes, waiting for a ball to be hit in their direction. I wonder if Manager Grimes, from his seat on the bench, will fire a pistol when a ball is hit as a signal for his outfielders to get going? I doubt if he will be allowed to carry a pistol, however, as the temptation to use it on himself sometime during the season might prove irresistible.

The sight of a Brooklyn outfielder (preferably a bearded one) hurdling after a long fly to deep center should be delightful. There will be no actual hurdles in centerfield, of course, but habit will force him to hurdle just the same. From the grandstand the effect will not be unlike that of a Texas jackrabbit tearing across the open plain. If the outfielder should reach the ball just as he is in the midst of a "hurdle" many things may result. For perfect hurdling form does not lend itself to catching baseballs. As a hurlder take a barrier his forward leg should be thrown out parallel to the ground, with just the slightest bend in it, and the other leg should be parallel to the hurdle. And the head and shoulders should be held low, with the arms stretched forward after the manner of a father greeting a prodigal son.

My guess is that the Brooklyn outfield will be laid up, en masse, with fractured skulls before the first western trip begins.

BUDGET BOOSTS ARE ASKED BY STATE AGENCIES

SACRAMENTO (UP)—Increased appropriations in the biennial budget for various state agencies, particularly the railroad commission, were predicted following a hearing of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee at which department needs were presented.

Headed by Wallace Ware, chairman, members of the railroad commission explained the pressing needs of additional funds to conduct properly the functions of that body. They asked an increase of $233,000 over the amount provided in the budget, $857,601. Support for the request was offered by J. J. Deuel of the California Farm Bureau Federation; Lester Reedy, prominent consulting engineer; Arnold Rumwell, Palo Alto, representing the California Municipal Utilities Association; Harry See, representing the Railroad Brotherhoods, and several others connected with civic and industrial organizations.

the critical inspection of her own family. Mrs. Barton, a graduate in home economics of the University of Illinois, is the Homecraft Editor of the Pacific Rural Press, and is in constant contact with thousands of homemakers throughout the state.

California is fortunate this year in being the only state to have satisfactory fruit and vegetable crops. Drought conditions and unusual weather in the rest of America have seriously affected fruits. On the contrary, California housewives have ample supplies of the many delicious varieties which comprise California's fruits and vegetables.

Mrs. Barton in this year's Homecraft Institute is featuring their use, preparation and preservation in many different ways. The recipes are specially tested for California's fruits and will be printed in the programs which will be given out at the Institute, thus forming a valuable reference for every homemaker.

This year's Institute features many such delightful California recipes for every branch of the homemaker's art, from decoration craft to laundry and party craft. Housewives and homemakers throughout the community are urged to take advantage of this opportunity to meet Mrs. Barton, and to hear her helpful and inspiring message.

If your home could be made more attractive, if you are interested in learning the latest and most helpful methods of modern homemaking, be sure to attend. The three sessions are scheduled for April 7, 8 and 9, at the Shakespeare Clubhouse. Jane Barton's conferences are planned to begin and end promptly, so that homemakers can get home in time to prepare the evening meal without rush or confusion.

California Homecraft Institute is brought to you under the joint auspices of The Republican and the Pacific Rural Press. Attend this great popular event, and bring your household economics up to date.

CEMENT FIRM SHOWS LARGE TRADE GAINS

Calaveras Cement Company reports a net profit of $244,884 for 1936, as compared with $56,930 for the preceding year.

The annual report, released yesterday by William Wallace Mein, president shows that the company's business improved substantially last year, with net sales totaling $1,370,657 as against $804,179 in 1935. Earnings, before provision for depreciation and depletion, totaled $357,694.

During 1936 the company paid $11 per share dividends on the preferred stock, leaving $8 cumulative dividends at the end of the year. The dividend arrearage figure is being further reduced and the current dividend met with a $2 per share payment being made on the preferred, March 31.

The company's balance sheet shows total assets at the end of 1936 of $2,732,852. Current assets totaled $846,089, of which $320,232 was cash, as against current liabilities of $190,408.

Mr. Mein in his report to stockholders expressed the belief that the increase in building activity during 1936, in which the company shared, will continue during 1937. Commenting upon the large dividend payments on the preferred last year he stated that it is the aim of the company to further reduce the accumulations consistent with earnings, plant improvements and maintenance. Last year the company expended $171,450 on plant improvements and additions, and considerable further expenditures are to be made during 1937.

MINE BUREAU QUARTERLY IS NOW AVAILABLE

The Division of Mines, Department of Natural Resources, under the direction of Walter W. Bradley, state mineralogist, announces that the October 1936 issue of "California Journal of Mines and Geology," comprising Chapter 4 of State Mineralogist's Report XXXII, is now ready for distribution.

The October quarterly has a detailed economic and geologic report on the mines and mineral resources of Lassen and Modoc Counties, including a geologic map of the Diamond Mountain district, Lassen County, by Charles V. Averill, district mining engineer, and H. D. Erwin, mining geologist. Mr. Erwin was employed by the Lassen County Board of Supervisors. The geologic branch presents a paper on the "Mechanics of the Lone Mountain Landslide, San Francisco, California," by Wm. M. Cogen.

This number also includes the biennial report of the state mineralogist to the governor; a special article on "Properties and Industrial Applications of Opaline Silica," by John Thorndyke and the usual notes concerning oil field development operations, statistics, museum, laboratory and library. The complete index to Report XXXII for the year 1936 is published in this final chapter.

Baldwin still is Prime Minister but he will step down from the premiership in two or three months to make way for Neville Chamberlain, Sir Austen's half brother.

SEE for yourself THE RIGHT AND WRONG OF LAMPS AND LIGHT!

NOW you can have a lamp designed for eye comfort as well as ornamental and decorative beauty. It is the lamp designed by the Illuminating Engineering Society to meet the need of Better Light for Better Sight. Due to remarkable improvements in design, this lamp is unlike the many ordinary lamps you may now have in your home or have seen for sale on the bargain counters.

Here are four good reasons why these radically different lamps give you more light for your money and protect the eyesight of every child, youth or adult who uses them for reading, study or sewing.

It gives several times as much light as the ordinary lamp because the shade is wide at the bottom and open at the top and gives light a chance to spread over a wider area.

It gives soft, diffused light without glare because of its inside opal glass diffuser and reflector.

It gives light from correct height because the standard is high enough to allow light to spread where you need it.

It gives beauty and decoration because more symmetrical proportions between shade and standard are possible.

Protect your eyes and the eyes of your family with one of these new lamps. They are made in either floor or table models. Prices are very moderate and within the range of everyone.
